

No More Kids with Cancer
Amy Summy, co-founder
Email: amy@nayafoundation.org
Twitter: @amybshah

Amy Summy – Amy is Naya Summy's mom, the inspiration behind No More Kids with Cancer. Amy is carrying out her daughter's amazing spirit and wish to cure childhood cancer. Since Naya's passing in 2014, Amy and her husband, Hank, have raised significant funds for childhood cancer research, funded groundbreaking research projects and clinical trials. They have attracted top researchers, scientists, advocates and philanthropists to help create a world where No More Kids with Cancer is a reality.

Amy is also an experienced and accomplished marketing and business executive. She is Senior Vice President and Chief Marketing Officer of TE Connectivity (TE), a $12 billion global technology leader in connectivity and sensor solutions. She is a member of TE's Operating Committee and a member of TE's Foundation.

Prior to joining TE, Amy held senior executive positions at Sapient and SapientNitro, including Managing Director and CMO. She helped drive the transformation of Sapient from a technology consulting firm to the largest digital marketing agency in the world. Prior to Sapient, Amy held sales and product management roles at Dun & Bradstreet.

In addition to her roles at TE and with No More Kids with Cancer, Amy is on The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia Brain Tumor Board of Visitors and Corporate Council. Amy is a member of Marketing 50, The CMO Club and The Seminar.

Amy earned a Bachelor's degree in Finance from Kent State University and a MBA in Finance and International Business from New York University's Stern School of Business. Amy lives in the Philadelphia area with her husband, son Zak, 3 dogs and horse.